Each year North Carolina Opera announces its upcoming subscription season with a Season Reveal party featuring live performances. This year the Reveal will take place at Whitaker & Atlantic, Raleigh's newest event space from Posh Nosh Catering creator Coleen Speaks. NCO's General Director Eric Mitchko introduces the season's programming. The Season Reveal features selections from next season's operas performed live by special guest artists. "I can't wait to share the season with our patrons. It features a balanced mix of premieres and operatic favorites plus a special collaboration with a Triangle arts organization. We are pleased to welcome both debuting and returning artists and present the company debut of a much beloved Metropolitan Opera singer in recital. It's going to be a terrific season," said Mitchko. WCPE-FM and Quail Ridge Books will both join the Opera for the Season Reveal.
